RESORT & ADVENTURES

Silk Caye Marine Reserve

Silk Caye (also known as Queen Caye) is two beautiful patches of white sand dotted with coconut trees and a ring of corals just waiting for you to explore.

Once in your dive gears, you can jump off the boat and into underwater paradise, where you will be amazed by the lively community of aquatic life. As you glide on the edge of the wall look out for lobsters, nurse sharks and eagle rays just to name a few. After your dive, you will make your way to the island and enjoy the best barbeque made by one of our local cooks. From the grill to your plate, enjoy your lunch while you listen and feel the whistling Caribbean breeze.

Laughing Bird Caye

What makes Laughing Bird Caye such a great dive site is that it sits on the tail end of a fero, a geological term, that refers to a narrow ridge of coral reef. Faros are very narrow and enjoy steep drop-offs into the surrounding water, an ideal environment for experienced divers to explore different marine environments. The fero is surrounded by naturally occurring deep channels that are used by marine life to navigate from one part of the reef to the other.

Enjoy a mild drift dive along multi-colored walls and ridges looking out for eels, turtles, lobsters and other reef inhabitants. After your first dive, we will may our way to the island and enjoy the best island barbeque made by one of our cooks, from the grill to your plate while you listen and feel the whistling Caribbean breeze.

South Water Caye

This pristine section of the reef sees few divers and is typically a wall dive that is disseminated with sand channels and spur and groove sections. The unique part of these sites is that they have inner and outer walls with up to 100 ft visibility. The outer reef walls are one of the best places to look out for eagle rays, nurse sharks and lobsters. After your first dive we take you to the island to enjoy the best pack lunch from our kitchen, while you enjoy the nice cool breeze relaxing on the island.

Moho Caye

Moho Caye sits just 12 miles east of Placencia. This piece of paradise is surrounded by crystal clear blue waters and white sandy beaches. It is an ideal spot for a sun filled day with families and friends. Enjoy an incredible snorkeling experience around the island or simply just swim in the clear warm waters of Belize.

If you don't want to snorkel or swim, then you can relax in your hammock or on your beach chairs reading a book or just taking a nap while the Caribbean breeze whistles in your ears. At midday, your favorite chef will grill the best barbeque you will ever taste, once the meal is prepared, he will notify you. Whether for snorkeling, swimming or just relaxing on the island, Moho Caye is the place to be.
